

Epsom Veterinary Center

To whom it may concern.

I first became acquainted with Jeffrey Gordon while he was employed by Anthony G Cavanagh & Co formerly of Ascot Vale, Victoria approximately ten years ago.

He had previously been employed by Dalgety Bloodstock during which time he gained a valuable knowledge of pedigrees, individual racehorse family performance, the function of the racehorse industry and valuable contact with people within that industry. His uncle, John Murray, was an extremely successful jockey in Australia and overseas and other family interest and familiarity with the racing industry helped compliment Jeff's training giving him an extremely good basis from which to launch his own bloodstock business.

From the latter years at Anthony G Cavanagh and immediately on starting out on his own, it became obvious to me that Jeff was a person of exceptional talent, knowledge and understanding of the bloodstock industry which would help him become a most successful figure in his field. In his own quiet way without fanfare or adulation he has developed a first class relationship with vendors and buyers because of his honesty, sincerity and endeavours to do things the correct and proper way. From my view as a veterinary surgeon who has done most of Jeff's pre purchase veterinary and general examinations, these attributes have always impressed me and made my job easier knowing that integrity and honesty will always be upheld and the right thing done even at his own personal financial cost. Jeff, I have noticed that he has an extremely good eye for a horse, it's athleticism and conformation. When all these facets of Jeff's make-up, personality and knowledge are combined it is no surprise it is no surprise to me that many of the horses I have examined after his recommendation have become Champions in countries such as Hong Kong and Singapore, are with world renowned trainers e.g. Patrick Biancone and David Hill and clients of such stables trust him without question.

I have no hesitation in recommending Jeff as a person of deep horse understanding and knowledge and of the highest integrity. He has developed into the best bloodstock consultant I have known in twenty years as a racetrack veterinarian.

Dr. Rick Selth

Epsom Veterinary Centre

Epsom Veterinary Centre

J.C. Sewell BVSc. MRCVS

R.H. Selth BVSc. MRCVS

G.D. Duncan BVSc. MRCVS

112 McDONALD STREET,
MORDIALLOC, 3195,
VICTORIA.
PHONE: 580 3999
580 3301
FAX: 580 5176

To whom it may concern,

I first became acquainted with Jeffrey Gordon while he was employed by Anthony G Cavanagh & Co formerly of Ascot Vale, Victoria approximately ten years ago.

He had previously been employed by Dalgety Bloodstock during which time he gained a valuable knowledge of pedigrees, individual racehorse family performance, the functions of the racehorse industry and valuable contact with people within that industry. His uncle, John Murray, was an extremely successful jockey in Australia and overseas and other family interest and familiarity with the racing industry helped compliment Jeff's training giving him an extremely good basis from which to launch his own bloodstock business.

From the latter years at Anthony G Cavanagh and immediately on starting out on his own, it became obvious to me that Jeff was a person of exceptional talent, knowledge and understanding of the bloodstock industry which would help him become a most successful figure in his field. In his own quiet way without fanfare or adulation he has developed a first class relationship with vendors and buyers because of his honesty, sincerity and endeavours to do things the correct and proper way. From my view as a veterinary surgeon who has done most of Jeff's prepurchase veterinary and general examinations, these attributes have always impressed me and made my job easier knowing that integrity and honesty will always be upheld and the right thing done even at his own personal financial cost. Over many hundreds of jobs that I have been involved with Jeff, I have noticed that he has an extremely good eye for a horse, it's athleticism and conformation. When all these facets of Jeff's make-up, personality and knowledge are combined it is no surprise to me that many of the horses I have examined after his recommendation have become Champions in countries such as Hong Kong and Singapore, are with world renowned trainers e.g. Patrick Biancone and David Hill and clients of such stables trust him without question.

I have no hesitation in recommending Jeff as a person of deep horse understanding and knowledge and of the highest integrity. He has developed into the best bloodstock consultant I have known in twenty years as a racetrack veterinarian.

R.H. SELTH BVSc MRCVS